Hi Josey

Thank you for the reply to the below emails, I did ask you to check over a week ago and if you know that legal aid loses so many applications and the turn around to know if legal aid is granted and the application was put in over 2 weeks ago I sure you would have known there was an issue.

Does the office not submit the legal aid applications online or by DX?

Time is running very low to get the information dealt with we still need information from the public order unit, and other things addressed Josey there is going to be a lot of work to get his ready for appeal for the 09/1 1/2015.

Lorraine

Legal Aid was sent in over two weeks ago as previously advised. If they have not received / processed the form that is outside my control. Clearly you are not familiar with the workings of the Legal Aid Agency and the frequency with which they lose forms, or the amount of time I waste on the phone to them making enquiries about legal aid applications previously sent in.

The Crown Court has been advised during a telephone conversation that the appeal would be 2- 3 days as per the length the original hearing took.

As previously advised Lorraine all other work will be undertaken once legal aid has been granted otherwise, we will not get paid for any backdated work. I submitted the appeal and that has been lodged. I did not submit a court stamped form so will now have to get fresh form signed and date stamped and I will only be paid from that date.

Please indicate if Simon can attend my office on Friday 9th October 2015 at 2pm with a full list of any new evidence he wants included in the appeal hearing.

In the intervening period of time I will get a crm 14 date stamped.

Regards

Josephine
